

Application to the Law Amendments Committee
An Act to Amend Chapter 18 of the Acts of 1998,
The Municipal Government Act and Chapter 39 of the Acts of 2008,
the Halifax Regional Municipality Charter
May 16, 2016

Good Afternoon,

My name is Penelope Russell. I live at [REDACTED] in Halifax.

My appeal today is to make application to the Law Amendments Committee, Bill 177 for consideration to make amendments to the Municipal Government Act and the City Charter with regard to Heritage By-Law H200.

We are all aware of how the whole Heritage issue in Halifax has mushroomed into the limelight recently, with much angst, controversy, frustration and outright anger at the apparent lack of concern for such an important aspect of our City.

I feel I have reason to be heard today because I grew up in the house that was 909 Young Avenue. That's what's called the Brookfield-Stanbury house. It was on the corner of Young Avenue and Atlantic Street. In 1947, the house was bought from Sam Brookfield by my father, Norman Stanbury, who opened his own Investment business, Stanbury & Co. on Hollis Street, with branches in Dartmouth, Saint John, NB and Montreal. Our historic and beautiful home was later demolished in 2006. I'm sure you are aware of the resulting 5 tract houses that replaced my father's home.

Recent demolition events have succeeded in demonstrating the fragility and vulnerability of important streetscapes, the integrity of well established neighborhoods, and protection of irreplaceable heritage resources. All of these are under attack.

Currently, there are development proposals before the City that are inconsistent with the policies of the Municipal Planning Strategy regarding the retention of current housing, the rehabilitation of existing housing, scale and proportion. It's possible that these proposals could be approved because the Municipal Planning Strategies are inadequately covered by appropriate regulatory controls in the City Charter and the Zoning By-Laws.

The ability of affected neighbors to appeal inappropriate development agreements and variance approvals is seriously compromised by their lack of familiarity with the rules to follow when submitting appeals and the lack of material available for guidelines to help them draft a satisfactory appeal.

All developers are keenly aware of the detail of zoning regulations but some are highly motivated and skilled at finding the loopholes in these regulations and in getting them adapted to accommodate their building pursuits and profits. The controls are lax. There needs to be a review of the word 'heritage.' What is it? What is its value? What needs to be done to protect it? There needs to be commitment and legislation to strengthen and put some teeth into the rules of concessions, zone variances and demolition permits that apply to development in protected areas.

In Halifax at present, the only tool available to protect heritage is the Heritage By-Law H200 which offers some degree of protection only to formally registered heritage properties. No protection is offered to any other eligible property because the process is cumbersome, bureaucratic, and unsympathetic to 3rd party applications. And it is an intimidating and daunting process to get a property registered with confusion about process, and a lack of understanding of the rules and regulations regarding registration.

I am not opposed to development. Growth also means change but at its best, there is also a vision and a plan for what is desired. With a clear process, strong regulations and regular monitoring for goals being met, there can be an exciting, vibrant and successful result.

There's an opportunity now for the Law Amendment Committee to affect change in the legislation – that could clarify and strengthen many aspects of what has become a distressing and sometimes controversial aspect of our City. It gives me great pleasure to tell you that other jurisdictions across Canada are demonstrating leadership in protecting their heritage resources.

I'm talking about the City of Vancouver. That much younger, beautiful City has recently adopted Land Use By-Law 11350 that protects buildings of heritage interest, and not only registered buildings. By imposing demolition controls on ALL buildings of such interest, pending a review of their heritage significance, much greater development controls and heritage protection is available. This is to assist the development officer and Council in assessing and intervening possible inappropriate development and variance applications.

In order to better protect our streetscapes, neighbourhoods and heritage resources, and to be consistent with the policies of the Municipal Planning Strategy, I ask that you incorporate an Amendment to the City Charter and to the Municipal Government Act that will immediately require our City to adopt a Heritage Procedure By-Law that takes precedence over the current Heritage By-Law H200. This By-Law should be worded as per the Vancouver Heritage Procedure By-Law 11350 which is attached hereto. This is an exceptional piece of legislation that would help to eliminate so many woes for our wonderful City of Halifax.

Respectfully submitted,

Penelope Russell
