To our decision makers:

I'm a frustrated citizen who's confused. We have a democracy in Canada and now in our province of Nova Scotia the present government is seeing fit to enact legislation that certainly does not feel very democratic. Controlling university boards of governors, loosening environmental regulations, limiting media access and enabling powerful firing procedures is scary stuff. It certainly looks like the powers that be can do whatever they want and leaves little opportunity to voice opposition. Looks like Nova Scotia is taking some lessons from the way things are going in the US. Well, this is me saying that this really sucks, and I'll be using my own precious time to let the powers that be that I object.

Respectfully and sincerely:

Scott Macmillan
